ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Are you broken in your rest by a sick child suffering with the pain of cutting teeth? Go at once to a chemist and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup. It will relieve the poor sufferer immediately. It is perfectly harmless and pleasant to taste, it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as bright as a button. It soothes the child, it softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for dysentery and diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup is sold by medicine dealers everywhere.

DOMESTIC OCCURRENCES.

THE CHARGE for Announcement of BIRTHS, MARRIAGES, DEATHS and MEMORIAM NOTICES, which must be authenticated by the name and address of the sender is Rs. 2 for six lines or less, and 8 as. for every additional line. CASH strictly in ADVANCE.

RECEIVER OF STOLEN PROPERTY.

Hassanalli Karimji was placed before a Common Jury on a charge of dishonestly receiving stolen property within the last twelve months including some property belonging to Messrs. Price, Wills and Rieves.

The accused pleaded guilty to the charge and withdrew his former plea of not guilty.

The accused also withdrew his plea of not guilty on a charge of habitually receiving stolen property and prayed for mercy after pleading guilty.

The jury, at the direction of his Lordship, formally returned a unanimous verdict of guilty.

His Lordship sentenced him to four years' rigorous imprisonment; the sentence to begin after the expiry of the sentence of twelve months passed on the accused on the 15th August last.

Abdul Ramjan, 55, then pleaded guilty to the charge of theft of certain property belonging to Messrs. Price, Wills and Rieves.

The record showed that the accused had spent more than ten years in jail but that he had improved during the last six years. As he had gone back to his old habits, his Lordship sentenced him to four years' and six months' rigorous imprisonment.

THEFT IN A BUILDING.

Sakaram Arjun, 34, was then placed before the same jury on a charge of theft in a building of three pairs of gold ear ornaments, silver toe rings, and silver of the collective value of Rs. 92.

Mr. Kenneth Kemp prosecuted. The accused was undefended.

The jury unanimously found the accused guilty and his Lordship sentenced him to six years' rigorous imprisonment as he seemed to his Lordship to be an incorrigible thief.

THEFT OF POSTAGE STAMPS.

Fukaram Laximan, a Post Office peon, aged 16, was then charged with stealing five half-anna postage stamps affixed on postal articles in course of transmission by post from the Mandvi Post office under section 52 of the Post Office Act.

SHIP-BUILDING CRISIS.

EXTENSIVE LOCK-OUT IN ENGLAND.

Trade Union Sympathies Alienated.

(THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.)

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

The ship-building crisis came as a sensation, as the industry was recovering and much valuable work had been promised, including twenty destroyers.

The employers defend the lock-out without notice on the ground that the Boilermakers' Society was repeatedly warned that there would be a lock-out unless it maintained discipline.

The employers are determined that the men shall not resume work till the Society guarantees the fulfilment of their agreement. There have been from sixty to seventy sectional strikes since the agreement was made. If these are not checked, they will mean the end of Trade Unionism.

In an interview a Trade Union leader admitted that the employers were naturally annoyed, and suggested a system of fines and possibly of expulsion of unruly members from the Unions.

The Daily Chronicle agrees with the Conservative papers that the want of discipline in the Unions ought to be remedied. It says the men cannot have things both ways.

The Daily News says the defeats of Trade Unions during last ten years naturally rankle among the men. Some supreme arbitrament is needed above the bargaining parties.

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

Just prior to the shipping lock-out to-day, the masters posted a further notice to the effect that the Boilermakers' Society would be notified that a resumption would not be permitted unless a satisfactory arrangement with assurances were agreed upon regarding the due observance of the shipyard agreement and working conditions. The notice caused surprise among the men, who now realise the gravity of the position.

Hitherto no disturbance has occurred in connection with the lock-out. In the majority of the yards the men ceased work this afternoon. Those locked-out at Birkenhead were thunder-struck with the suddenness of the blow. They consider that their fellow-workers in the North can do nothing but capitulate in an untenable position.

A leading employer, in an interview, said they were in dead earnest this time. He did not believe that the strike would be lightly settled.

Older Unionists are angry at the frivolous excuses taken to cease work. They give instances of workmen ceasing work to go to football matches. They fear that the Board of Trade Arbitration in disputes will not be available, unless better discipline is maintained in Trades Union ranks.

LATER.

Glasgow telegrams state that negotiations are proceeding between officials and members of the Boilermakers' Society. It is believed that the lock-out will be of short duration.

COLD STORAGE GRAPES.

New Australian Industry.

LONDON, SEPT. 2.

Experiments carried out by the West Australian Government in the export of grapes in cold storage, have been most successful. A consignment sent to London arrived in perfect condition, and fetched top prices in the market. These grapes arrive at the end of the European grape season, and so ensure a supply in England all the year round. There are twenty million acres suitable for grape-growing in Western Australia, and there is every prospect of an important industry developing.

EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS AT MONTREAL.

Arrival of Papal Legate.

LONDON, SEPT. 4.

Cardinal Vannutelli has arrived at Montreal as Papal Legate to the Eucharistic Congress. He was received by an immense concourse. The Mayor delivered an address of welcome imbued with a most fervent Catholic sentiment.

The British Association has accepted the invitation of the Commonwealth Government to visit Australia in 1914. A few days will be spent in the capital of each State.

The Association will meet at Dundee in 1912, under the presidency of Sir William Ramsay.

The King has honoured King Edward's Horse (the King's Overseas Dominions Regiment), "formerly the King's Colonials," by becoming its Colonel-in-Chief.

PANAMA CANAL.

Mr. Roosevelt Calls for Fortification.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

Speaking at Omaha, Mr. Roosevelt dwelt on the need of a strong navy. The cruise of the Fleet round the world, he said, had immeasurably raised the prestige of the nation. The digging of the Panama Canal was one of the great feats of the ages, and a refusal to fortify it would mean the abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine and would be treason to the destiny of the Republic.

Reuter wires from Chattanooga that at a Convention of the American Bar, the President arraigned Mr. Roosevelt's policy of the new nationalism, which was a danger to the nation.

LONDON, SEPT. 4.

Washington advices report that replying to the British press criticism that fortifying of the Panama Canal would mean the tearing up of the Anglo-American Agreement of 1901 guaranteeing neutralisation, the State Department points out that Mr. Taft also recommends the fortification, to which it is understood that Britain assented in 1901.

CANADIAN FISCAL SYSTEM.

Tariff Commission to be Appointed.

LONDON, SEPT. 2.

Reuter wires from Winnipeg that in receiving a free-trade deputation, Sir Wilfrid Laurier announced the impending appointment of a Commission with a view to finding a solution of the question discriminating against no class, but securing the greatest benefits for the greatest number. Sir Wilfrid reiterated his devotion to Free Trade.

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

While he was at Winnipeg, a deputation of miners asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier that there should be reciprocity in the coal trade with the United States, as the industry had reached its limit in its present circumscribed market. They declared that Free Trade would treble employment, and open up great coalfields which were now dormant.

Sir Wilfrid promised to consider the matter.

LONDON, SEPT. 4.

Sir W. Laurier has concluded his Western tour with a speech at Medicine Hat. He said he had learned much on the tour and had met multitudes of new Canadians, thousands of whom came from America and were proud to become Canadians. The United States were learning that the monarchical institutions of Canada were not less democratic than theirs. The King of England was subject to law equally with the American President and without possessing such autocratic powers. Canada had found the secret of becoming a nation without breaking with the Motherland.

THE STRAITS FREIGHT BILL.

"A Just War."

LONDON, SEPT. 2.

Reuter wires from Singapore that the Council has passed the second reading of the Freight and Steamship Bill.

The Governor said the Bill was an instrument of war, but the war was a just one in the interests of the colony. He did not think they would fail in their fight against the shipping ring.

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

Reuter telegraphs from Singapore that in the Legislative Council on the Shipping Bill, the Governor said that a suggestion had been made that the Conference lines should ask the Government, what freights they considered excessive. The Government's answer would be that the freights on all their products were unduly high. They could accept no guarantee, except a guarantee of free competition.

A NEW ALLOY.

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

LORD ROBERTS'S MISSION.

Final Arrival in Berlin.

[THROUGH REUTER'S AGENCY.]

LONDON, SEPT. 3.

Reuter telegraphs from Berlin that the Embassy staff and a distinguished gathering of German officials were drawn up on the platform waiting for the arrival of the British mission announcing the accession of King George. They searched in vain through the train for the mission. Afterwards a telegram arrived stating that Lord Roberts was indisposed, but was leaving Vienna to-night.

LONDON, SEPT. 4.

Lord Roberts has recovered from indisposition and has proceeded to Berlin.

LATER.

Lord Roberts's mission arrived at Berlin this morning. It was received by the Embassy, staff and high officers. A Guard of Honour and a band with colours was in attendance. The Mission drove to a hotel. They will be guests of the Emperor.

"WITCH" BEATEN TO DEATH.

Cruel Affair at Kidderpore.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

CALCUTTA, SEPT. 3.

The case, in which an up-country woman, named Rajani, was reported to have been beaten to death in the vicinity of Kidderpore Docks by a number of superstitious coolies under the impression that she was a witch, capable of performing dangerous miracles, came to-day on in the Court of Mr. N. L. Bagchi, Fourth Presidency Magistrate. A man named Panchoo Couri and two others were sent up for trial.

A woman, named Xekti, giving evidence said that the deceased Rajani used to live in a house with several Ooria coolies at the Kidderpore Docks. About a fortnight ago, the husband of the witness fell ill, and Rajani suggested that she could cure him by a novel process. She asked for a cocoanut which was brought, and it was hung over the deceased by a piece of rope fastened to a ceiling of the room, where the sick man was lying and the patient's bed was placed just under it. On the second day the cocoanut burst, and the water fell on the head of the sick man. On the same day it was noticed that the knot on the head generally worn by Oorias had disappeared. All the coolies came to hear about the incident afterwards, and the witness said, "Rajani is a witch, because the cocoanut burst and the knot is gone." On this, three accused entered her room. Panchoo Couri held Rajani by the hair, and the second and third accused struck her with their fists. She was so badly injured that she succumbed to her injuries.

The witness identified the accused Sorada Charan Datta Gupta, and Charu Chandra Sen as the persons who shadowed the witness on the 15th November. THE WOUNDED INSPECTOR.

DACCA, SEPT. 3.

Mr. Ghose, the Inspector, who was shot on Thursday night, is better this morning and pronounced to be almost out of danger. The bullets extracted from him prove to be of a small bore which accounts for his not having been killed.

The outrage occurred at Darband at an unfrequented corner of a road, with a lane behind by which the culprits made off. The first person to come to the inspector's help proves to have been a hackney carriage driver. The Magistrate and Commissioner were shortly afterwards upon the spot.

PNEUMONIC PLAGUE AT BANGALORE.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

BANGALORE, SEPT. 3.

The following message from the Viceroy has been received in Bangalore, through the British Resident, in connection with the pneumonic plague outbreak at the Victoria Hospital:—

"Lady Minto and I wish to express our sincere sympathy at the sad outbreak of plague at the hospital, which has cost so many valuable lives. We feel greatly for the bereaved families."

The railway authorities have been addressed as to the desirability of disinfecting the platforms and passenger carriages daily.

A lengthy press communique issued by the Mysore Government on the subject of the outbreak shows that absolutely heroic measures were adopted, else the disease could not have been brought under control as it has been, and cut off to all in the hospital at least. The doctors were subjected to an overwhelming strain. There were 8 cases of pneumonia treated before the nurse Saldanha fell ill, and of these, 3 had been cured, two were convalescent and 3 had died. The next two nurses (Mrs Edwards and Miss Moore) and two ayahs who soon afterwards became ill had not merely been in close attendance on Mrs. Saldanha, but had been seen to kiss repeatedly the lips of the dead body and fall on it in demonstration of their affection. All the patients in the hospital have now been inoculated with the prophylactic serum, the staff having been operated on a week ago.

QUEEN'S ROAD IMPROVEMENT.

THE following is the report of the Committee of the Corporation regarding the question of widening Queen's Road from Church Gate Street to Wodehouse Bridge:—

By Corporation Resolution No. 5345, dated the 22nd December 1907, the question of the improvement of this roadway was referred specially to the Committee of the Corporation regarding street refuges. After careful consideration that Committee recommended that the roadway be improved by throwing into it a strip of ground, 15 feet wide, from the vacant plot of ground on the west belonging to Government. This recommendation was accepted by Corporation Resolution No. 727, dated the 9th April 1908, and the Commissioner was requested to approach Government with a request that the strip of ground may be handed over to the Municipality for the improvement.

With reference to this request the Commissioner was informed by the Under-Secretary to Government, Revenue Department, that subject to the sanction of the Government of India, the Government of Bombay were prepared to give free of charge land measuring 6,480 square yards for the purpose of increasing the width of the Queen's Road from 35 to 50 feet between the Church Gate Station and the Wodehouse Bridge on the following conditions:—(1) That a low dwarf wall similar to the existing wall of neat appearance and paved on top be constructed on the boundary of the land, just clear of the proposed new 10 feet footpath that is to run on the west of the road, i. e., on land to remain in the possession of Government; such wall to vest in Government after completion; (2) that the land shall be liable to be resumed by Government if used for other than the specific purpose for which it is granted; (3) that should the land be at any time resumed by Government, the compensation payable therefor shall not exceed the cost or the present value, whichever shall be less, of any works executed on the land by the Municipality; (4) that the land shall not at any time be built upon.

Government also suggested that the corner at the southern end of the road may be eased off and that the proposed footpath may be paved.

The cost of widening the road and of constructing a kutcha footpath and a new parapet wall with the necessary drainage arrangements and improved lighting was estimated by the Executive Engineer at Rs. 48,646, and the cost of paving the footpath at Rs. 22,983 for Tandur stone pavement or Rs. 26,270 for blue stone pavement. At the request of the Committee these estimates have been revised by the Executive Engineer and the final estimate amounts to Rs. 38,359, as shown in the margin, including the cost of a footpath which the Committee consider should be of tarred macadam. The Committee recommended that these revised estimates be approved and that the terms on which the area is offered by Government be accepted. The question of acquiring a portion of the Bombay Presidency Trades Association Gymkhana ground need not be considered at present, in view of the proposal approved by Corporation Resolution No. 2068, dated the 12th July 1909, to ease off the corner of the Cooperage on the opposite side. When that improvement is effected the Corporation will be in a better position to judge whether or not the acquisition of a portion of the Trades Association Gymkhana ground is desirable or necessary.

SIDELIGHTS ON BURMESE HISTORY.

[ERNEST CHANET.]

Of all the handicraftsmen brought out from France by General d'Orgoni, and repatriated by Sir Arthur Phayre, one alone remained behind, Ernest Chanet, a gunsmith, who, owing to an adroit representation from the Einshemin, had been permitted by the King to enter the services of the former. Chanet could not claim to be called a gentleman. His manners were those of the populace. But for wit, ready repartee, and exuberant gaiety, he was a genuin Parisian Gavroche. Like his prototype in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," he would in insurrection time have descended to the street, and facing the soldiers representing order and authority have defied them in jeering words and indecent gestures to fire at him. In his line, however, he had no master. He was able to make and turn out rifles and cartridges quite as good and efficient as any made in Europe at the time. Of the Burmese jungle-wallahs placed under him he made splendid smiths. An eminent engineer at the head of a dockyard at Mandalay admitted to me that the disciples left by Chanet were as capable and reliable as any of his own best workmen. It was Chanet whose arrangements brought smoothly the huge marble block, out of which was made the colossal statue of Gaudama erected near the Mandalay Hill to its destination, and not any of the officials named in the records of the Supreme Court. The Einshemin admired his inventive genius. Chanet contrived to make a number of ingenious machines, and also a massive stamping engine able to turn out of steel, copper or silver ingots, plates, cups, swords and carpenters' or smiths' tools. He was often presented by the Einshemin with large sums of money, and he had besides his own salary which grew from Rs. 300 to Rs. 600 monthly; but he had not brought the traditional French woollen stocking with him. Extremely liberal with his men and open-handed even with strangers, he spent his money right and left, especially left. He had to go on sick leave to Rangoon, but he died shortly after his arrival there and he was buried by his illustrious countryman, Bishop Bigandet.

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE EINSHEMIN.

Invited one day by the Einshemin to follow him to his garden, we arrived at one side of a large tank, on the other side of which were seen standing his wives and daughters, attended by maids of honour. Their elegance, their sweetness and their evident pleasure at being in the open air, formed a most capitivating sight. They all were flamboyant tameins, long jaconet jackets open in front, and beautiful silk handkerchiefs of delicate pink, orange or cream colours, thrown from their left shoulder over the shapely contours of their bust untrammelled by barbarous corsets. The Prince, of a middle height and healthy appearance, who looked harsh and boorish if vexed however trifingly, from some cause or other, was transfigured, and his face reflected a frank, open and pleasant aspect when things went on smoothly round him. In this present instance he was at his best. He had a rose in his hand not one of the scentless Bengal kind, but a genuine Ispahan rose with the otto perfume in it. He asked me smiling "fine, is it?" Remembering that Orientals never allude to the ladies of their house, I could not believe the Prince was breaking the rule. On the other hand, he had ostensibly brought out his wives and daughters to have a look at the foreigner, and he had possibly guessed my pleasurable emotion. I thought it possible he wished me to express my opinion. But with the impassibility of the Englishman who had visited the Paris Moulin Rouge and witnessed there dumbfounding exhibitions, and who to his enquiring friends replied that the candelabra in the room were of the same kind as those in the London theatres. I whispered to the Prince—my eyes fixed on the rose in his hand, and my mind concentrated on seductive group on the other side of the tank, a duality telling of the struggle between what was esh and what was dangerous, which occurs at times in the breast of the most honest men—(fine, my Lord!). Then good-humouredly the Prince waved his hand, when the glorious bevy took its flight like a flock of multi-coloured butterflies.

Then the Einshemin led me to a pavilion close by a small but neat teak structure with an ordinary plank roofing, containing one room only, 20 by 30 feet approximately. Besides the door there was but one window which had been opened likely to enable me to see the curiosities in it. There was no chair, only a folding stool. Tores long tables and a number of shelves were all the furniture. I had expected to be enchanted with the rarities credited to that place. Never was I so disappointed. Disorder and confusion reigned all round. Most of the books on the shelves, French ones presented by General d'Oorgoni, and English ones by Burmese educated at Calcutta, were ranged with their titles upside down. They referred to mechanics, engineering, chemistry, gun powder, firearms, etc. They seemed to have never been opened. Among cheap lithographic pictures nailed on the walls Bonaparte on horseback was here, and Napoleon on horseback also was there, recalling those two verses from Victor Hugo:

Ce siecle avait deux ans; Rome remplacait Sparte;
Deja Napoleon perçait sous Bonaparte.

The Prince was walking about, and I was following in my stockings only, according to the custom accepted by all Europeans. That pavilion was called studio—a gross misnomer. There were an alembic and small electrical machine, both out of order, and a lot of cartons, large phials and short-necked bottles, all empty—luckily! General Orgoni and the Burmese students from Calcutta had probably meant that their books should have been used by competent masters who would have formed a senoil of theorisers. It was not theorisers that were wanted, but practical men like Chanet, able to use their own hands. The Prince had estimable aims. He wished to create and promote useful craft; but instead of following the example of the King who, wanting velvet made at Mandalay, got out velvet makers from Lyons, he thought he could get his end more economically by employing natives who were able to turn out articles cheap, but now nasty!

To my grumblings about such waste as the creation of a so-called studio which was only a lumber room, Chanet replied that the alembic, the electrical machine and the chemicals were got from Calcutta, by whom he could not say. The Prince, above all, believed in books. Science was found and explained in them. Why could not people able to read them become competent and do or make everything that was described in those books? That was truly a royal road to knowledge! Chanet dared not recommend getting qualified operatives from France. The fate of d'Orgonis men was before him. All he could do, and he claimed to have done it, was to stop the Prince's mania for getting more books.

Large portfolios were lying about the tables, filled with images which, at a glance, I saw must have been selected by the young Burmans at school in Paris and Calcutta. Possibly they had committed less their own taste than the supposed taste of the King, who, however, did not appear to prize them. They were passed to the Einshemin with the King's advice to keep them away from his wives and daughters; but the Prince shared his Royal brother's want of appreciation and he had a good excuse for it: they were shadows only, and on the other side of the tank he had just shown me charming realities, the sight of which had been a joy for ever.

Chanet taking advantage of the liberty he had to visit the place, had hung up a few pictures of his own shooting, representing women in every kind of undress, except one, a demi-mondaine Parisienne robed in a flowing gown, open just enough to inspire perverse ideas, a model full of grace and a melange of amiability and voluptuousness, giving voice to what appeared to be her mission in these four verses written at foot.

Je ne vis pas dans soupirs de la brise,
Ne l'air du temps, de la manne du ciel;
Non, non, je vis de l'humaine bêtise;
Vous le voyez mon règne est eternel!
[Because I can not live on air
And manna's hard to find,
I choose this everlasting fare—
The folly of mankind.]

Taut picture, a reproduction of one of Fanin Lalon's masterpieces, was the only one having an artistic value. The verses, part of a famous song, dating from King Louis-Philipe's reign and subsequent, therefore, to the picture, were a most fitting adaptation which originated with Chanet, whose happy thought caused the incongruities in the room to be forgotten.

That so-called studio was the very image of the Government and the administration of Upper Burma in the latter days of King Mindon, when his attempted building of a pagoda at Yankintaung, which was to have eclipsed the Shwe Dagon, dried up the Royal treasury. A few months after the death of the Einshemin, the whole town of Mandalay was one evening plunged into consternation. A sinister glare was seen to the north of the Palace, and

...ncreasing in intensity and violence, and the news ...s throughout the town that the late Rinshemin's ...asters were on fire. The flames fanned by a ...outhern breeze, had soon reduced to ashes the whole ...uildings, including the studio. BANDMANN OPERA COMPANY.

"Dear Little Denmark."

On Saturday evening the Bandmann Opera Company gave before a crowded house in the Empire Theatre, Bombay, a successful performance of "Dear Little Denmark," a new play from the Prince of Wales Theatre, London. It was new played in Bombay for the first time and was given an appreciative reception. It is by no means as strong as several other pieces in the Company's repertoire, but it is a pleasant little comedy without any plot in particular, but giving several members of the company some excellent songs, and among the picturesque scenery and costumes of Denmark it has a very charming setting.

Mr. James McGrath had the principal male part of Conrad Petersen, a bell founder, who somehow has managed to upset the Duke Ernest Von Rasmussen (Mr. Harry Cole) and discovers in consequence that the course of his true love with Christine (Miss Florence Beech) runs nothing like as smoothly as it might. Mr. McGrath, who on Saturday was in excellent voice, had two or three attractive songs, and one of the best items in the play was his duett of the bells in the first act with Miss Beech. She played with all her ordinary charm and was an exceedingly effective heroine. Miss Connie Leon, too, had a good part including a song or two and some clog dancing which she did very neatly and daintily. Mr. Harry Cole as the Duke did not have much to do except complain of his gouty. That, of course, he did very funnily, while a good comic part was in the capable hands of Mr. A. W. Frith. He was Hans Hansen, a clockmaker and the bell founder's rival, a thin young man who wandered on and off the stage in an aimless sort of way, but always left smiles behind him. Others of the company who may be mentioned were Mr. Dan Clifford, Miss Wilmot Karkeek and Miss Dorothea Temple, who all did well in minor parts.

This evening the company will play "The Toreador."

AERONAUTICS.

Military Airships for England.

The British Army authorities are about to reorganise and greatly extend the aeronautical branch of the service, usually known as the "balloon companies," a fact which will be received with general satisfaction. The establishment of a corps of military airmen experts with heavier-than-air machines and the employment of dirigible balloons in the autumn manœuvres will mark considerable progress while the prospect of having at an early date two airships from France indicates that this country will soon have the nucleus of an aerial fleet.

THE AEROPLANE IN WAR.

Writing in the "Tageblatt," Col. Gadke infers from the success of the French aviators in their overland flight that it will be necessary for the German Military Administration "speedily to introduce a large number of aeroplanes into the service of the Army, and at the same time to take steps for the formation of a body of experienced air pilots." He says: "It is clear that aeroplanes can already perform important service in reconnaissances. The contested question whether they are in a position partially to replace cavalry need not be brought up for decision here, but they will at any rate supplement its activity in a valuable manner. They will collect much information which would never be accessible to cavalry, and, above all, they will do it over long distances and in a much shorter time. It is a defect of cavalry reconnaissances that the knowledge which it yields has necessarily in the great majority of cases seen long overtaken by events. No small gifts of combination on the part of the general are necessary to infer from what was ascertained many hours previously what is actually the existing situation. The possibilities of error are very great. In this respect the art of war will in future obtain great support from the new apparatus."

MILITARY DEFENCE AGAINST AERIAL ATTACK.

Some interesting shooting practice has been carried out on the Pomeranian coast by Major Gross, of the German Aeronautical Battalion, with the co-operation of the gunnery training ship "Undine." The "Undine" and another vessel steamed along the coast with balloons attached. The guns of the Guard Artillery succeeded in hitting these with great accuracy, the balloons at once collapsing.

CROSS-CHANNEL FLIGHT.

The American airman Mr. Moissant, whose intention to fly from Paris to London had been previously announced, successfully crossed the Channel on Aug. 17, and alighted at the village of Tilmanstone, near Deal. This is the fourth time that an aeroplane has made the cross-Channel journey, but Mr. Moissant's achievement differs from those of M. Bleriot, M. de Lesseps and the late Mr. Rolls in that he carried a mechanic as a passenger. Owing to the high wind the airmen were unable to complete the journey to London on the 17th, but Mr. Moissant started early yesterday morning (Aug. 18) from Tilmanstone on his intended flight to London, but had to alight at Sittingbourne in consequence of a defect in his machine. Resuming the flight after some hours, Mr. Moissant had again to alight near Chatham, and this time his propeller was smashed in the descent, and a new one has to be fixed.

BOMBAY RUGBY TOURNAMENT.

West Ridings vs. Leicesters.

The final tie in this competition attracted a very large crowd to the Cooperage on Saturday afternoon, but the game was disappointing. The teams engaged were the West Ridings and the Leicesters, and on both sides play was generally uninteresting with only an occasional flash of cleverness, such as the second dropped goal, to relieve its dullness. Only twice during the whole match did the West Ridings attempt any passing, while the Leicesters were practically never given an opportunity to develop combination amongst their backs. Well beaten forward, where the Yorkshiremen wheeled and commanded the scrums, their halves rarely got the ball heeled out, and even on the few occasions they got possession the nippy work of the Ridings' halves, which was conspicuously near to offside play on several occasions, prevented them from getting the ball away to their three-quarters. Thus the game was almost entirely confined to the forwards and the West Ridings who were much better in this department, attacked practically all through, and well deserved their win.

Attacking straight from the commencement the West Ridings scored within the first five minutes. After a rorimmage on the Leicester line the ball was passed to the centre and Turner standing right before the goal scored an easy dropped goal. All through the first half the West Ridings had the better of it, but the Leicester backs were fairly sound in defense and only once was the line crossed, when after a hard scrum inside the twenty-five, Boolland, one of the forwards, managed to go over.

A few minutes after the second half commenced there was another score, Morris scoring a marvellous dropped goal almost from the half way line. The game remained at this end for a little while. Then the Leicester forwards began to play a better game, and assisted by some clever touch-kicking by their backs, particularly Hougham, they kept the game in the West Riding quarters for a good spell. Penalty kicks were frequent at this stage of the game and from one of these given against the West Ridings for offside play Hougham kicked a goal. A little while before time the West Ridings returned to the attack and Wilson getting a pass from the centre scored a try near the corner flag. A good kick at goal just missed. The next Ridings thus won by two dropped goals and two tries to a penalty goal. Result :—

West Ridings Regt.....14 Pts.
Leicester Regt .....3 Pts.

West Ridings.—Crampton, back; Thomas Turner, Newton, Firth, three-quarters; Wilson and Harris, halves; Lieutenant Cornish, Shaw, Bootland, Widdop, Donald, Hirst, Robinson and Brayshew.

Leicesters.—Hougham, back; King, Captain Riddell, Dooley and Whatsize, three-quarters; Hyde and Gregory halves; Lieutenant Weir, Brewin, Hadley, Green, Marfin, Twigg, Howtell and Webb.

After the game the West Ridings who have thus won the cup two years in succession were presented with the trophy by Mrs. Wallace. Mrs. Swann had promised to perform the ceremony, but unfortunately she was too unwell to be present.

Harwood League Scandal.

A REMARKABLE INCIDENT.

On Saturday evening the R. G. A. should have played their last League match of the season against the Rovers, and only had to make a draw of the game to make them champions of the Harwood League. The match, however, was abandoned, and the points awarded to the R.G.A., after a special Committee Meeting had been held in the Tent on the Oval, the reason for which is alleged to be as follows. The captain of the R. G. A. is stated to have received a letter during the week from one of the officials of the Rovers' Club, to the effect that if the R. G. A were willing to comply with certain terms a draw game could be arranged. This letter was produced to the members of the Committee of the Harwood League. A meeting was held and after some consideration it was decided to disqualify the Rovers for that match and to give the League points to the R. G. A. team.

It is understood that Mr. Walton, joint-secretary of the Rovers' Club repudiated at the meeting any knowledge of the alleged offer which if it had been made was entirely without his approval. To a Pressman after the meeting he said that his first knowledge of the affair was acquired at the meeting itself.

The Rovers have decided to take no further part in the League competition.

The captain of the R. G. A. team was seen yesterday, but he refused to make any statement.

POONA JUNIOR POLO TOURNAMENT.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

POONA, Sept. 3.

The final of the Junior Polo Tournament was played at noon to-day and in spite of the hour a fairly large gathering was present in the pavilion, including a number of ladies. The opposing teams were the Royal Engineers, represented by Mr. Rawlence, Major A. G. Bremner, Capt. S. Boyd, and Mr. A. D. Arbuthnot, back, and 33rd Cavalry, represented by Mr. G. Edward Cotlings, Mr. Kenworthy, Capt. Gillies and Mr. P. Wise (back).

The Engineers got away with the ball from the start and Major Bremner made a run down, but the ball was got out of danger. They came again, however, and Bremner scored. The Cavalry retaliated with the change over. Kenworthy equalising shortly before the close of the first chukker after a hard galloping game to all parts of the field. The second chukker closed with the teams still level. Beginning the third period Major Bremner got possession and had a clear run to the opposite end, but the manœuvre failed for want of support. After some sticky play in the middle Major Bremner broke away again and scored with a long shot. Just in time, however, the 33rd drew level again, Captain Gillies putting the ball through from a scrimmage. In the fourth chukker the 33rd attacked and for a time hovered round the Engineers' flags, Mr. Wise scoring the third goal with a cross shot. With the change of ends the Cavalry still pressed their opponents, but their shooting was erratic. Opening the fifth chukker the Engineers hit out from behind their flags and carried the ball to midfield from where the Cavalry got possession and Mr. Wise scored the fourth goal. Mr. Arbuthnot, a little later, stopped a couple of shots close in to Engineers' flags. When the bugle sounded, the score stood :—

33rd Cavalry ..... 4 goals
Royal Engineers ..... 2 goals

At the conclusion of the game, General Aldersen made a short speech in which he congratulated the winners, who had, he remarked, annexed the trophy for the second time in succession. Though the ground was very bad, the game was excellent and the General referred to the curious coincidence that the same two teams had contested the final in the Junior Tournament last year. He then asked Mrs. Sloggett to give away the cup, after which cheers brought the proceedings to a close.

The following is the drawing for the open Tournament, which begins on the 8th instant.

Inniskillens Dragoons vs. 26th Light Cavalry.
Merriman's team vs. the Remounts.
33rd Cavalry vs. General Alderson's team (Bye).

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The reading of the barometer at the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 32° F. and for Calcutta standard at 8 a. m. (local time) on the 3rd September was 29·762 inches. The height of Observatory barometer cistern above zero of the tide gauge at Apollo Bunder is 47 feet. The height of tide in the stream above zero of the side gauge was 10 feet at 8 a. m. (local time). The temperature correction for a mercurial barometer, supposing the reading to be 30·00 inches and that of the attached thermometer 80° F. will be ·14 inch and this will be higher and lower by ·01 inch for each 4 degrees. In the case of the aneroid no temperature correction is required. Should the height of barometer cistern, either mercurial or aneroid above zero of tide gauge be different from 47 feet, it will read higher or lower by ·01 inch for each 11 feet. The readings given above are distinct in from those given in the daily weather report, to which different corrections have been applied.

THE ARMY IN EGYPT.

IT was rumoured last month that the Government had definitely resolved to increase the number of British troops in Egypt, and that steps to this end would be taken in the course of the next few weeks by despatching detachments from the Mediterranean depots and from South Africa. On inquiring at the War Office a press representative was informed that nothing was known there of any such decision. It was added that the number of British troops in Egypt could only be increased as the result of a resolution on the part of the Army Council, and that no resolution of the kind had been arrived at.

OUTRAGE ON THE METROPOLITAN RAILWAY.

AT Marylebone Police Court on Aug. 17 William Simpson, thirty-two—whose real name, it was stated is Walter Perzis—was charged on remand with shooting at Mr. W. S. Frost with intent to murder him. Mr. Frost gave evidence, describing how the prisoner attacked him in a train on the Metropolitan Railway on the afternoon of Aug. 9, fired three shots at him with a revolver, and then after a struggle, slipped out of the carriage. He had never, to his knowledge seen the prisoner before. Evidence was given of the arrest of the prisoner, who on being taken into custody said Mr. Frost attacked him first. He was remanded for a week.

THE LADIES' CORNER.

THE VALUE OF SUITABILITY.

English women, by slow degrees, writes a London correspondent, have learned the all-important lesson of the value of suitability. At last they have begun to recognise the fact that the only gown which will really look well is the gown which is specially suited to the occasion. This knowledge, which, by the way, seems to come quite naturally to the young French girl in the school-room, if not in the nursery, has been but slowly acquired even by her well-educated sister in England; while English working girls, with their feathered hats perched on bird's nest fringes, their imitation jewellery, their gaudy satin blouses, and their ill-cut and carelessly kept skirts, have much still to learn from the French girls of similar station, whose beautifully dressed hair and neat, trim figures are positively a delight to look upon.

THE LATEST MILINERY.

Hats made in very simple shapes in felt and tweed are being supplied for Scotland, some of them taking the time-honoured lines of the always-becoming Tyrolean chapeau while other again incline definitely towards the tam o' shanter, always appropriate in the land of cakes. Close-fitting caps carried out in suede and in finely stitched leather have a certain charm of their own, especially when they are finished with a well-chosen mount of pheasant plumage, or possibly one or two eagle quills. For real comfort when travelling the cottage bonnets are bad to beat, made in soft glace silk, closely gathered, and arranged with sightly projecting brims, and long veils which can be thrown back at a moment's notice, and are therefore not nearly so difficult to manipulate as the ordinary motor veil. It will be as well, this season to choose one's country hats to match exactly the gowns in whose company they will eventually be seen. In fact, so far as it is possible to judge at present from what is being done at the moment by the Paris milliners, it would seem safe to prophecy that the days of contrasts are rapidly coming to an end, and that hats, carefully arranged to match the gowns, will be quite a feature of the autumn fashions. This is good news indeed, since it will prevent many blunders in the choice of colours which although they may be popularly supposed to "go" with each other really spend their days in one long fight.

BIG BLACK PICTURE HATS.

In the case of the big black picture hats, of course, an exception is always made, since the gown has not yet been invented with which a large black hat does not look well. The only drawback to the new hats of this kind, is the extraordinary angle at which they are worn. When a hat is placed upon the head in such a way that it blots out entirely one half of the face, and compels the owner incessantly to twist and turn her head in a vain effort to see where she is going and what she is doing, it can scarcely be looked upon as a desirable form of headgear. On the other hand, there is much that is very attractive about a large picture hat, which is arranged so cleverly that one side of the brim forms a becoming halo and background for the face and coiffure, while the other side curves down, but in a slight degree only, and at such an angle that it interferes not at all with the sight of one eye. Among the most effective picture-hats are those which are made in black Tagel straw, lined smoothly under the brim with black soft satin, and trimmed only with a huge bow of fine black lace, tied with six or seven long loops. These lace loops are lightly twisted this way and that, so that they follow the curves of the crown, and yet serves to give a certain amount of height to the figure.

INVESTITURE OF THE PRINCE OF WALES.

THE "Observer" says :—We have good reason for believing that the investiture of the Prince of Wales within his Principality is as good as settled, and that the hearts of Welshmen will be gratified by the revival of a ceremony as picturesque as it is honourable and ancient. The Welsh folk are fortunate, not only in possessing the entire goodwill of the Sovereign, but also in having a powerful friend at Court. A few weeks ago Mr. Lloyd George took the initiative by summoning to meet him at his house, in consultation, a body of influential men, who stand for most of the higher activities of Wales. There were Lord Tredegar, an essentially Welsh pier; Lord Cawdor, a distinguished Unionist with Welsh interests ; Lord Plymouth, who may still be better known as Lord Windsor ; the Bishop of St. Asaph, who stands for the Church in Wales ; Sir Alfred Thomas, the Chairman of the Welsh Parliamentary Party ; the Rev. Cadvan Davies, who represents the Wesleyans ; and other ministers and laymen, representing the powerful body of Welsh Non-conformity. It was made clear that there is every prospect of the old custom being revived ; but nothing has yet been determined as to when and where it will take place, or what will be its form. The question of place is the initial difficulty to be settled. Carnarvon wants it. Cardiff wants it. Carnavon has enormous traditional advantage, it is redolent of memories of the early Princes of Wales. But Cardiff has sprung into overwhelming importance as a commercial centre.

FOR GARMENTS MADE AT HOME.

For those who make their garments at home there is no fabric quite the equal of "Viyella." Its soft finish gives comfort to the tenderest skin ; it does not shrink, and its texture is just right to provide sufficient warmth without risk of chill.

Be sure you see the "Viyella" label on the selvedge.

Ask your draper to show you the new patterns ; if you have any difficulty write for our booklet about "Viyella."

SCIENTIFIC NOTES.

FAW IRISH SPIDER.

It is a remarkable fact that such a well searched country as Ireland should still afford the naturalist the excitement of the finding of new species of plants and animals. And yet the pages of the "Irish Naturalist" show that such occurrences are by no means rare. Sometimes the record is of a species new to the British Isles, sometimes of one already known in Britain, but not previously holding a place in the Irish annals. The current issue of the above paper contains an article "On some rare Irish spiders obtained in 1909," by Dr. Randell Jackson. One of these is new to Britain and Ireland. Another, which had been previously recorded for Ireland in 1907 is unknown in Britain. The former was found on the banks of the Ulster Canal, and is known to occur in France and Hungary.

TAILOR ANTS.

Mr. L. Gilpin-Brown, writing from Ceylon in the current number of "Knowledge," gives an interesting description of what have been called "Tailor Ants." In their remarkable work of sewing together the leaves in the construction of their nests the adult ant uses a larva as needle and thread. Mr. Gilpin-Brown has frequently watched the ants at work, and gives a graphic description of the process. The leaves have to be bent over and sewed together along the edges and the way in which the ants accomplish this is remarkable. A number of ants, perhaps, as many as a dozen take hold of the edge of a leaf in their mandibles and pull it backwards as far as they can. Then another set of ants lay hold on the first by the waists and also pull backwards. A third and fourth set join in the same way and gradually the edge of the leaf is bent over to the opposite edge.

SEWING THE LEAF.

As the two edges of the leaf are thus brought together the later comers disengage themselves, leaving only the first-comers holding them in position. Then takes place what is perhaps the most wonderful part in the whole process. A number of ants appear each carrying in its jaws a larva, and by means of a thread spun by the latter the edges are fastened together. Sometimes an ant may be seen to seal up a hole by means of the thread spun by the larva in a similar way. Feeling round the edge with its antennæ it dumps the head of the larva on one side so as to fasten the thread of silk there, moves over and fastens it down on the other side, comes back again, and so on ; each trip leaving a thread of silk behind, until the hole is completely sealed up."

ANTS AS SEED CARRIERS.

The same periodical contains a note by Professor F. Cavers on ants and seed dispersal. In 1906 attention was called to this method of seed dispersal and the plants which were thought to spread in this way were called myrmecochorous, that is, spreading by means of ants, by Sernander. The attraction to the ants in such seeds is, of course, the food bodies they contain. In all, Sernander describes 120 species, of which the seeds are fitted for dispersal by ants. These insects were watched by him, and seen to carry seeds for great distances Professor. Weiss has also studied this subject, and specially the spread of gorse along roadsides and disused cart-tracks on moors. He suggests that the seeds may have been carried by ants, which have been attracted by the brightly coloured food-bodies. The experiment of leaving gorse seeds and those of various other plants on the tracks along which ants were passing to and fro resulted in the removal of the former, while the latter were left untouched. When an ant came across a gorse seed it quickly found the orange-coloured fruit body, and began to gnaw it. Similar observations were made with the seeds of the broom. Professor Cavers contends that this method of seed dispersal has already thrown light on some problems of plant distribution. That ants may in this way promote the spread of plants is an undoubted fact ; that there is any special adaptation in the seeds for this mode of dispersal is more than doubtful.

CAN LIFE PASS FROM PLANET TO PLANET.

Spontaneous generation is required to complete the theory of organic evolution, and is, indeed, postulated as a logical necessity by many distinguished evolutionists. Yet the evidence is overwhelmingly against its occurrence at the present day, or in earlier times under similar conditions. Hence the suggestion of Professor S. Arrhenius that life in the germ stage may pass from planet to planet is of considerable interest. If spontaneous generation is impossible on our planet under present conditions, may it not be taking place on some other planets under different conditions ? And, if so, may not such spontaneously produced beings pass from their birth place to the earth ? Thus the elephant may be the last link of a chain derived from some lowly organism originating (in Jupiter, while the primitive ancestor of the tiger may have come from Mars. If this could be shown to be possible, or probable, a great difficulty would be removed from the theory of evolution

IN METEORS OR AS COSMIC DUST!

Many years ago Lord Kelvin suggested that germs might thus pass from world to world in meteorites. It was then pointed out that the cold of inter-planetary spaces, and the intense heating of the meteorite on entering our atmosphere, would be equally fatal to the germs of life. Lately, however, it has been shown that many germs are extremely resistant to low temperatures is and that the heating of the meteorite is only superficial. Professor Arrhenius bases his suggestion on the former fact. Low temperature, he maintains, can so strongly check and diminish the vital activity that life may be sustained for millions of years. He relies rather on cosmic dust than on meteorites as carrier, or perchance the germs themselves may travel as dust. They are supposed to wander by means of radiation pressing from the planets of their birth.

SCIENTIFIC CRIME DETECTION.

Alphonse Bertillon, chief of the anthropometric service of the Paris police, and inventor of the system of measuring criminals that bears his name, believes that, in the elucidation of crime, the more exact facts we collect, and the more methodically we seek, verify, and give a logical grouping to the evidence, the greater is our chance of discovering the true cause and the perpetrator of the crime. He has recently invented a special dynamometer to facilitate judicial investigation by furnishing measurements the muscular efforts made by a bulgar in entering a house, room, or dusk, and making it possible to reproduce the traces left by the burglar on doors and furniture. The device consists of a steel frame to which may be attached two dynamometers of unequal power. We read in "The Scientific American," to which Jacques Boyer contributes an account of the instrument. "The stronger dynamometer, having a maximum capacity of one ton, and designed for the measurement of vertical efforts, is connected to the top of the frame by a screw, by means of which it can be raised or lowered a few inches. The lower spring of the dynamometer is attached to a heavy vertical steel plate, which slides in grooves along the two vertical posts. When the index of the dynamometer is at the zero-point, the bottom of this plate, which is about 1 1-2 inch's thick, is about 3-4 inch above the sliding horizontal plate. In this interval is inserted a wooden board 3-4 inch thick, with its edge flush with the bottom of the vertical steel plate. The experiment is made by inserting between the board and the vertical steel plate the end of a 'jimmy' or other burglar's tool and endeavouring, by moving the handle of the tool up and down, to produce on the board impressions similar to these which have been found on doors and furniture. The index of the dynamometer moves in accordance with the effort exerted and, by means of a second index which remains fixed when the first returns to the zero mark, the instrument automatically registers the effort required to produce a given impression. "The figure thus obtained indicates only the vertical effort, or effort of pressure ; but there is always a horizontal component of greater or less magnitude, and this is registered by a horizontal or traction dynamometer, which is attached to the sliding horizontal steel plate." The dynamometers can be used separately or together so that the horizontal and the vertical efforts may be measured alone or in combination. In the latter case Mr. Bertillon has found that, as might be expected, the horizontal effort is always much smaller than the vertical or pressure effort

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D., Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL, Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.

"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE Esq., M.R.C.S., Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized, and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils, and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH pos sesses in a supreme degree reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognized."

DR. R. C. CRAFT, Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."

"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."

Dr. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is Supplied ONLY in IMPERIAL Half-Pints, Pints and Quarts, sealed with Betts' Patent Capsule impressed on the top with DR. DE JONGH'S Stamp, and on the side with his Signature, and the Signature of ANSAR, HARFORD & Co.; and bearing under the wrapper a Label with the same Stamp and Signatures.
